The students really enjoyed seeing the different varieties of shells and gained really valuable knowledge about the shells, the snails living in it, its beautiful patterns on them. The museum in charge also shared the facts about the museum and made the students aware about different kinds of marine animals and their biological characteristics. The museum also had beautiful collection of pearls showing its formation, different shapes and colours available made the students wonder its beauty. There was also a dinosaur museum in it, which gave a visual and audio representation of the dinosaurs. The aquarium was indeed a great place for the students to know about various kinds of fishes.

After this the students were taken to the main attraction of Mahabalipuram which was the seashore temple. This temple made of granite stones is the oldest stone temple which has stood strong over years. This temple is also known as seven pagodas due to its pyramidal structure which represents the presence of 7 temples in the past. Shore temple is a complex of 3 temples. One big temple and two small temples. According to a stone inscription in the temple, the three temples are named as Kshatriyasimha Pallaveswara - griham, Rajasimha Pallaveswara - griham and Plikondaruliya devar.

Outcome of Event:

1. This EVS field visit helped the students to gather more knowledge about the sea shells from the sea shell museum.
2. The students also visit and gain knowledge over the other museums available in there like dinosaur, ship materials museum and the fish aquarium.
3. The students were then taken to Sea shore temple where there were able to witness the heritage of our country by seeing the sculptures and the temple.
