The Department of Corporate Secretaryship (Shift II) at Dwaraka Doss Goverdhan Doss Vaishnav College, located in Arumbakkam, Chennai 600 106, organised a seminar program on the "Indian Contract Act 1872" on 22nd August 2023. This event aimed to providing valuable insights and knowledge about contract law to the students.

The key note speaker for the seminar was CMA T.C.A. Srinivasa Prasad, who is an experienced legal expert with a deep understanding of contract law. With several years of experience in Financial Management, Mr. Srinivasa Prasad also possesses expertise in areas such as ERP, Strategic Planning, M&A Finance, Budgeting, and Forecasting. His vast knowledge and practical experience made him the ideal key person to deliver an enlightening lecture on the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

The purpose of this lecture was to educate the audience about the historical development, key principles, and contemporary relevance of the Indian Contract Act. Mr. Srinivasa Prasad delivered extensive details about the provisions of the Act, aiming to bring clarity to its significance in shaping contractual relationships in India. By integrating real world examples and case studies, he successfully illustrated the practical application of the Act.

However, it is noteworthy that while the lecture was comprehensive, there is always room for improvement. By focusing on recent judicial interpretations and evolving aspects of contract law, the lecture have further enhanced its contemporary relevance. Moreover, a lively Q&A session provided an opportunity for participants to seek clarification on specific aspects of contract law and engage in meaningful discussions.

One of the interesting aspect of Mr. Prasad's approach was his willingness to create an interactive environment. He encouraged student participation by inviting them to come on stage and conducted a quiz session based on the concepts covered during the lecture. The students who provided correct answers were rewarded with tokens of appreciation, which further motivated their active engagement in the session. Add on to that he welcomed the interested students to sing on the stage. And at the request of the students, he showcased his own talent by giving a mesmerising singing performance on stage.

Overall, the seminar was an interactive and valuable experience for all the students. It provided a comprehensive overview of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and deepened their understanding of the legal framework governing contracts. The knowledge gained from this seminar will undoubtedly contribute to both academic and professional pursuits in the field of law.

Report for the Event:

A Guest Lecture on the topic of Implementation of Blockchain Technology-Based Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC) Program was organised on 03.10.2023 at Shri Vallabhachary auditorium at 2.00 P.M is a groundbreaking initiative that aims to explore and develop a digital representation of a country's fiat currency issued by the central bank. The primary goal of this program is to harness the power of blockchain technology to create a secure, efficient, and transparent digital currency that can serve as a viable alternative to physical cash and traditional payment systems. This report provides an overview of the program, its objectives, the technology involved, potential benefits, and the challenges that need to be addressed.

Introduction:

The concept of a Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC) has gained significant momentum in recent years. With the rise of digital payments, cryptocurrencies, and the need for enhanced financial inclusion, central banks around the world are actively exploring the potential implementation of CBDCs. Blockchain technology is at the forefront of these initiatives due to its secure and transparent nature, making it an ideal foundation for digital currencies.

Objectives of the Program:

The primary objectives of the Implementation of Blockchain Technology-Based CBDC Program are as follows.

- a. Create a secure and efficient digital representation of the national currency, issued, and regulated by the central bank.
- b. Enhance financial inclusion by providing a digital currency accessible to a broader population.
- c. Foster innovation and competition in the financial sector while maintaining regulatory control.
- d. Improve transparency, traceability, and security in payment transactions.
- e. Reduce the costs associated with the printing, distribution, and handling of physical cash.

Department of Corporate Secretaryship (Shift-II)

Technology Involved:

The backbone of the CBDC program is blockchain technology, which provides the following key features.

- a. Decentralization: Transactions are recorded on a distributed ledger, reducing the risk of a single point of failure.
- b. Security: Cryptographic techniques ensure the integrity and privacy of transactions.
- c. Smart Contracts: These self-executing contracts enable programmable and automated transactions.
- d. Consensus Mechanisms: Mechanisms like Proof of Work (PoW) or Proof of Stake (PoS) maintain the integrity of the ledger.

Potential Benefits:

The implementation of a Blockchain Technology-Based CBDC offers several significant benefits:

- a. Enhanced Security: Blockchain technology's cryptographic features make transactions highly secure and resistant to fraud.
- b. Improved Efficiency: Digital currencies can facilitate faster and cheaper transactions, reducing intermediaries' costs.
- c. Financial Inclusion: A CBDC can provide access to financial services for underserved or unbanked populations.
- d. Transparency: Transactions on a public ledger can enhance transparency, reducing the risk of corruption and illicit activities.
- e. Cost Reduction: The elimination of physical cash handling and distribution can lead to substantial cost savings.

Challenges:

The program also faces several challenges that must be addressed:

- a. Technology and Infrastructure: Developing the necessary technology and infrastructure for a CBDC implementation can be complex and resource-intensive.
- b. Privacy and Security Concerns: Balancing privacy and security in digital transactions while ensuring compliance with regulations is a delicate task.
- c. Regulatory Framework: Developing a robust regulatory framework is crucial to safeguard against illegal activities and protect consumers.
- d. Adoption and Acceptance: Widespread acceptance of a CBDC is critical to its success and might require incentives or mandates.
- e. Interoperability: Ensuring compatibility and interoperability with existing financial systems and international standards is essential.

Conclusion:

The Implementation of Blockchain Technology-Based Central Bank Digital Currency Program is a visionary endeavour with the potential to transform the financial landscape. By harnessing the power of blockchain technology, central banks can offer secure, efficient, and transparent digital currencies that enhance financial inclusion and drive economic growth. However, addressing the challenges associated with technology, security, and regulatory concerns will be paramount to its success. As central banks continue to explore CBDC implementation, careful planning and collaboration with the private sector will be essential to unlock the full potential of this innovative financial instrument.
