Introduction given by Prof. N.C. Martin about the topic: -

Introduction to the “Acing Your First Job” was delivered by Dr.N.C. Martin. He started the session with a brief introduction on the webinar topic. He started with how a candidate should crack an interview with studious and serious preparation in this competitive world. He believes that with hard work and determination, every interview is an experience which will be useful for the individual to build confidence. He also mentioned about how individuals meet new people in every interview, how they brand and sell themselves. To survive through the interview process, one should display their knowledge, skills and talent in order to convince the employer. He mentioned that the main preparation for the interview starts from researching about the company details and researching about the job requirements of the particular position. The reason for researching is to help the candidate frame career objective which is considered very important to build one’s career.He also mentioned that it is important to know also know the details of the interviewer, possibly through various platforms, especially social media platforms like LinkedIn and other sources which will help the candidate build a bond and rapport with the interviewer. The candidates should identify common interview questions and should start practicing answers for those questions.

Preparing answers for these questions will give more confidence for the candidate while answering in the interview.

He also mentioned that, it is important to have at least three active references of contact like name, email id and phone number, which will be easy for the interviewer to check details before interview if necessary.

One should be confident to ask questions to the interviewer if they have any doubts and they should not be shy to ask questions. One can ask questions like “What are the day-to-day responsibilities?”, “What are the company values?” and “What are the challenging aspects in this position or work?”.

He concluded the session by mentioning about how important the decorum and dress of the candidate is important.

10. Detailed Report of the Programme

The D.D.G.D. Vaishnav College, School of Management organized a soft skill training session for all first year School Of Management students from 3rd March to 9th March, 2022. The workshop was handled by Mr. Raja Venkatesh. He is a certified personal trainer, freelancer, career counsellor and corporate trainer. He completed his electrical and electronics engineering from Kamaraj College of Engineering and Technology and MBA-HR and Marketing from University of Madras. He worked as an assistant system engineer in TCS, Head trainer and placement officer in Infant Jesus group of Institutions, Soft skill trainer in Velammal Educational Trust and as a chief trainer officer in SKP Engineering College. He also has work experience in Sutherland Global services, GRE edge and Sify Technologies Ltd. He is an IIT certified trainer in soft skill and personality development.

The workshop was a six day program where he would always start the day by saying the 3 things,

- life is a mind game, take control of it
- break your comfort zone and
- life is a learning experience.

He believes that it's not what you have but it's what you do with what you have. He also stressed on the point that all great things take time, and one must not stress over it and should relax and take things as it comes. He gave some useful insights as to how we can tackle a problem, he goes on saying that if you're not aware of a problem, then know about it. If you need something but you cannot get , then you should break your comfort zone. If there is something that can get it but you are not consistent at it then you should keep doing and everything will fall in place. If you are consistent at what you are doing but you're not effective at it then you should stop, check yourself and take help from your mentor. He stated 10 qualities of a professional that one should imbibe in oneself to become successful, responsible and effective. He conducted a lot of sessions that would help us in our day to day life as well and not just our work life.

He conducted a session on presentation skills as to how one must be prepared mentally and also content wise. He stressed on the importance of communication skills and conducted a lot of activities related to it. He took a session on interview skills that one must learn. He gave his insights as to what the corporate expects of us as professionals and it was very insightful and gave us an image of how we need to portray ourselves to make an impact during an interview. We now understand the different parameters we are assessed on during an interview and it would help us in the future and keep us one step ahead. He also prepared us on how to write our resume so that we can leave a long-lasting impact on the interviewer. When we go into the corporate environment he mentioned that email writing plays a very important role and that is the first thing that the recipient sees of us.

11. Outcome of the programme/event

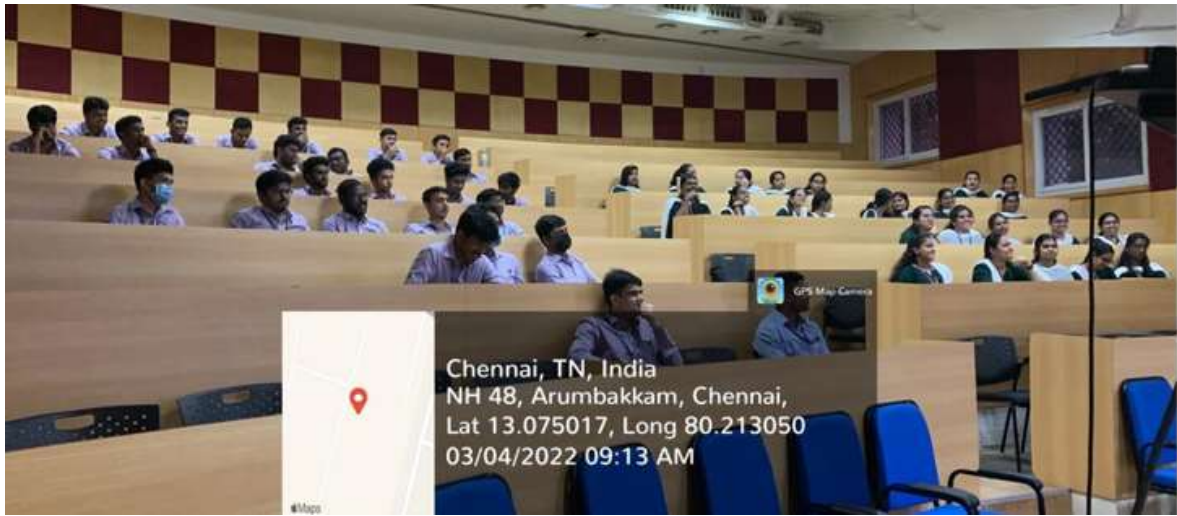

This extensive session outcome was

- Ethics & Professionalism
- Email writing
- Interview Skills
- Resume Building
- Group Discussion

REPORT

Introduction:

The students in year 1 and 2 pursuing their MSW degree were in avid anticipation to receive and benefit from their Alumni, Mr. Srinivas Ananthanarayanan's vast experience in the profession of two decades. The student committee members were diligent in organising the audience and registering their presence within 10.30 AM. Mr. Sarathy of Ist year provided technical support for the Resource Person's presentation. The event started out by invoking the Lord Almighty by Ms. Hareeni, IInd year, seeking smooth and joyous proceedings. The Master of Ceremony, Ms. Sreevidya, IInd year requested Dr. Sulu Priya, Head of the Department of Social Work to welcome the august gathering. The HOD welcomed the students, faculty members and most importantly the Resource Person, for gladly accepting the invite. She paid glowing tribute to the history of the department from its inception in 1989, having produced a number of successful professionals who have excelled in diverse fields. The students applauded the fact that all of the Alumni have stayed in touch and gladly wish to give back to the institution over these many years, a major factor for the sustained reputation of the department. She concluded that Mr. Srinivas would be a perfect role model to emulate, in both the professional and personal spheres of life that one has to lead with equal integrity. After the address was well received, Ms. Shivangi of IInd year shared the Guest's impressive profile, having worked and excelled in various capacities as a HR professional across IR, OB, OD, research and now entrepreneurial venture with 'Peopleverse'. The students were visibly in awe of the various feathers to his cap and the difference he has made in individual and organisational paths. Mr. Srinivas was welcomed on to the stage with a memento by Mr. Sarathy.

Knowledge gained from the Session:

Mr. Srinivas offered his salutations to the faculty members before starting the session. The students greeted him enthusiastically. He began by briefing about the need for how science can be applied in addition to the human elements required in the field of HR. From his experience, he felt that the knowledge base and depth is slightly dwindling, due to various factors that are put in practice but are in essence very superficial and short lived. But why are such individuals resorting to the superficial? It would be true that they are skilled at certain aspects of their profession, but a holistic development of the individual is key to unlock those subtler facets of oneself that reflect in their performance and ability to make a difference.

To quote the speaker, “Know what you DO NOT want to do in life”, reflecting his own path to decide not to go into accounting/ finance despite having many family members in the field.

He stressed upon the fact that MSW is a professional course and could be equated to studying medicine, as it demands the same scale of applying the body of knowledge on diverse subjects in our observation and practice during internships. Out of the many benefits that he had derived from studying MSW, the ability to think on one’s own and create an entrepreneurial scope in organisational practices is what he believes were the guiding factors for him to study ‘COGNITIVE NEUROSCIENCE’.

The resource person drew the response from the audience that the faculty of retention is rather low, typically during exam scenarios. This is one area where cognitive neuroscience intervention could do a minor tweak in perception, that could transform the individual.

An exercise for the audience was given based on showing a video of the Synapses that happen microscopically in the brain, forming ‘MEMORY’. Mr. Srinivas asked them to write what they were good at. He then posed a vote for what is called the ASK classification (Attitude, Skill or Knowledge) for qualities such as Advice. It was confirmed that Knowledge was the classification that dealt with the ability for the best individuals dealing with problem solving or grievance redressal. This could be broadly termed as AWARENESS to understand, think and act. After all, we learn through a gamut of experiences built into our database.

The second and most powerful exercise given to the audience was to close their eyes and visualise what all they saw at various points of time in the future. They had to note it down and keep it confidential with them. Mr. Srinivas stated how powerful this exercise was in his life and the group of friends who took it along with him. He believes that every thought or idea that creeps in has a meaning that manifests itself at some point in time. The students were asked to contact him 3 years down the line and reveal it for themselves.

His concluding remarks were to have a sense of PURPOSE in whatever we do or think. It is crucial to be morally and ethically judicious in all the facets of life, for it gives the true sense of balance to our conscience. Be open to EXPERIENCES in the first few years of any career, for there is more room for error in that stage and to learn. And for that to happen, we must BE INVOLVED in whatever we set our hearts and minds to. The audience gave a standing ovation at the end of the Presentation.

The session concluded as follows: Mr. Anuraj of IInd year gave the vote of Thanks, followed by the National Anthem. Mr. Ramakrishna of Ist year documented the program through photography during the presentation and capturing the group photos as per protocol.

Outcome of the programme:

The students conveyed their whole-hearted appreciation to the Resource person and to the department for having organised such a pertinent topic that occupies the minds of every student. The session was extremely valuable to the students to seek a sense of purpose and value in their careers.

Detailed Report of the Program:

Mr. Shyam Sunder presented as the session's Resource Person on Campus Placement Training, Preparation For Technical & HR Rounds. He is the head of corporate communication, Suguna group, Coimbatore. He is a public relations and Marcom professional with 14 years of expertise in external & employee communications. The faculty coordinator for the program was Prof. Ramesh S and the MC for the session was Monash Chandra Babu K N, and the welcome address was given by Uthara M Pattathil.

The session started with students posing questions through text and Mr. Shyam sunder gave his insight by answering the questions, to be brief he talked about the role of HR and multiplicity involved in that profession and he also quoted that “HR is the first and last person to meet in the organization”. Initially, the whole session revolved around the recruiter’s expectation or what they look for to obtain a prospective candidate and he explained the basic elements as he was addressing freshers, it is the attitude and the amount of research of the company and the eagerness towards the company.

The speaker answered all the questions, which were asked in the text box. The startup is the best place to start for a fresher: Get your hands dirty, get into a startup where amazing ideas come out. But the salaries are low for startups, they help you get to the very next level.

Skills needed for HR version: One of the major skills, which speakers like to look into. Especially for HR is Attitude. With this knowledge, one thing which an HR pressure needs to be smart enough is skills on his excel and a stop on presentation. From the above, HR freshers should be flexible to work in any kind of environment be it a startup or a small firm and one of the primary skills for an HR fresher is to have an understanding of MS office.

Apart from this Speaker gave tips on how to create a smart CV that would get the recruiter's attention, which is to give precise information on the achievements of the students during UG and PG and the required skills for the respective jobs which are being applied for and a professional photo.

Given the current climate of “Online interviews” he advised to be as motivated as possible during the entire session as that would ‘bridge the gap and would compensate the lack for human touch’, and to be present in an area with abundant lighting source, camera and mike should be of quality as the interviewees are solely reliant on that and mainly the candidate should be properly dressed and should maintain eye contact with the laptop camera. Apart from this, he advised that the self into part should be of “elevator pitch” meaning, to give a brief speech that outlines an idea for a product, service, or project.

The speaker guided the students to attend an interview. First, they wanted to “Understand about the company. What is their vision, what is their future??. So those things will help you if the situation is based on your work experience or an internship.

With this, the question session was completed and the students started to interact with him by switching their cameras on. The first question was about the mistakes during the job search, he explained it through bullet points:

- Proper dressing for personal interviews
- Carrying pen during offline interviews
- Preparing 3-4 resumes before attending interviews
- Not to negotiate salary (as freshers scale are fixed)
- Not to disclose information besides the info given in the resume
- Acknowledging offer letters post interviews

There are certain weaknesses that you should not have to be getting into a role. For example, you need to have some good feelings but suppose for example I say that I'm not very good when it comes to interacting or talking with people, I cannot say that weakness but while at the same time it is also true.

The speaker said that Whatever weakness is not weakness. It is a gap where we need to. Help us out. It is not, I don't call it a weakness at all. I have seen a lot of people who have changed dramatically. When they said the videos, I couldn't talk. So, yeah, there is a mindset. The basic qualification of an HR person is to connect. So, don't give a weakness that is completely parallel to your profession. Student asked a question whether it is okay to join an HR consultancy firm, especially in the recruitment Process. Speaker told the students. HR consultancy as an agency is completely different. If you're going to join a company, Initially, you will be a generalist, after five or six years or seven years of experience, whatever you come to the next specialist you would be looking for employee management plan, IR money after you are joining on with. Mode is standardization, in the comparison, that is the role in consultancy is limited to that of any other company apart from consultancy.

Outcome of the Program:

The students learned about the presentation in order to attend an interview. They had a good understanding of what a HR team expects during the recruitment process. In addition, the students conversed about the difficulties of facing interviews online. The speaker provided numerous key points for preparing for both online and offline interviews

Report of the Program:

MBA is still among the most coveted degrees among career aspirants.

Students also need counselling and guidance services regarding the selection of PG courses; in this case, we should assist them in making appropriate, satisfying and interesting educational choices. Especially after BBA, for identifying the industry Verticals, students are planning to join MBA Program in a reputed institution. That planning and preparation have to be started at least from their 2nd Semester.

CAT is the entrance exam for more than 160 management institutes across India, including the 20 IIMs. Questions that often troubles students are when is the right time to enroll for CAT coaching and start preparation for CAT. Resource Persons from T.I.M.E. coaching centre, given clear information to our students. During the sessions, they covered orientation and strategy for CAT. They also conveyed about, how their institution would be helpful for aspirants preparing for the CAT exam.
